Foreword

MANY young people are able to obtain a college education only because certain financial aids are available to them at the institutions of their choice. Many others are denied a college education because they do not know that financial assistance may be obtained through the colleges in the form of scholarships, prizes, and opportunities for self-help.

Hundreds of requests for such information come each year to the Department of Public Instruction, and to public school administrators and guidance officers. The purpose of this bulletin, therefore, is to provide concise, accurate, and helpful information for all who are interested in financial aids and self-help opportunities that are obtainable under certain conditions while in attendance at accredited Pennsylvania colleges and universities.

The information contained in this bulletin will give prospective students and their parents sufficient knowledge of opportunities for financial aid as to provide incentive for further investigation on their part.

For more complete information about tuition, scholarships, or opportunities for self-help at any specific institution of higher learning, requests should be addressed to the Registrar of that college or university. The facts presented in this publication were obtained from the authorities of the various colleges and universities who report it as valid for the 1947-1948 college year.

State Scholarships Department of Public Instruction

Eighty scholarships valued at $100 each are awarded annually to graduates of Pennsylvania approved high schools on the basis of competitive examinations given on the first Friday in May. Details may be secured from the Pre-Professional Credentials Division, Department of Public Instruction.

Senatorial Scholarships

Each State Senator has the privilege of awarding three scholarships annually in each of the four state-aided Universities (12 scholarships per year for each Senator), University of Pennsylvania, Temple University, University of Pittsburgh, and The Pennsylvania State College. The value of these scholarships is the amount of the tuition in the university attended. Application should be made directly to the local State Senator.
